

AMUSEMENTS.

The Drama of "Black Hawk."

Arizona Joe again last night pleased a fine audience in his romantic drama, "Black Hawk." The shooting is excellent, and the play should be seen by all who like wild Western scenes. Matinee to-day and last performance to-night.

Ben Maginley in "May Blossom."

The attendance at the Academy has not been as large as it should have been to see the veteran actor, Ben Maginley, in "May Blossom." It is a beautiful play and the scenery is fine. Those who have not seen it should attend either the matinee to-day or the last performance to-night.

A Moral Show.

If you wish some fun go up to the Indian wigwam on Broad street above First. The show is an excellent one, and all who attend are treated courteously. No lady need fear to attend, and the entertainment is one of the best of the kind ever seen in the city. Manager Goff invites a visit and is sure that they will pay a second visit. See advertisement in this issue for particulars.
